When you become a member of the International Association of Facilitators, you are not buying a service, but rather joining a global community. (Martin G., IAF member, Manchester, UK)

As an international association, IAF wants membership to be accessible to facilitators in all of the regions we serve. To that end, we offer the option of paying a rate based on the economy the country in which you live. These rates are adjusted to the World Bank economic classifications. Residents in "high income" countries are asked to join at a higher rate than those from "middle" or "low income" countries. All memberships carry full benefits.

We ask you to contribute at the highest level possible to support the IAF's mission to promote the power of facilitation worldwide.
